BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORY NOTE:

Born in Freehold Borough, New Jersey, on June 7, 1930, Theodore Jonas Flicker excelled in the arts, becoming a noted screenwriter, director, actor, and sculptor. Early on in his career Flicker became a member of America's first theatre of improvisational comedy, Chicago's Compass Theatre. He went on to write and direct a Broadway musical before venturing into motion pictures, when he co-wrote and directed THE TROUBLEMAKER in 1963. Flicker continued his career in motion pictures, and later in television, as an actor, director, and writer, for shows such as The Dick Van Dyke Show and The Andy Griffith Show. He wed Barbara Perkins in 1966 and has lived in Santa Fe, New Mexico since 1986, where he continues to concentrate on his sculpting career.
